
Search link connector question

Posted by Adolfs - 2008/05/09 19:30

Just a quick one. Could you please explain a bit the search link.
I am trying to have the search link point to a google search rather than the internal search.
I've tried a lot of combinations but i can't get it to work. I'm a bit vague on the search connector too, i mean is it the operator like the one in google analytics "Query Parameter"?.

Thanks a bunch

Hi!

My test for google search:

all words:

Search link: <http://www.google.com/search?hl=en&q=%1>

exact wording or phrase:

Search link: http://www.google.com/search?hl=en&q=\"%1\"

one or more of these words:

Search link: <http://www.google.com/search?hl=en&q=%1>

Search connector : OR

Best regards

Skorp

Great this is really helpful, that makes more sense now, at least to me.
Once my page is ready I'll share it with you.

- "index.php?option=com_remository&Itemid=20&func=search" in the search link

What can I put in the search connector?

Hi!
Try this index.php?option=com_remository&func=search&search_text=%1&search_filetitle=1&search_filedesc=1&submit=yes

Here is a topic from the Remository forum: create search to remository?

You can also install and activate remository search plugin

Thank you, it s work very well!

Another question:
Is there a solution to have a unique search form (from the raf tag) for joomla contents and remository contents?

Thank
